INTRODUCTION

During 2021, we were still fighting for the challenges of the pandemic, due to which we realized the largest number of activities online. In an effort to be responsible for both ourselves and our project partners, we assessed the situation each time and accordingly organized activities either online or hybrid or live in compliance with prescribed epidemiological measures. After the summer the impact of the pandemic weakened and happy because of that, we organized a number of live events to enable representatives of partner institutions and organizations to live happily and work together after almost two years of online communication.

The TPO Foundation has achieved remarkable results through its long-standing programs of the ETOS initiative, SAPERE BH and Socrates Cafes, but has also launched two new programs UNIGEM (Universities and Gender Mainstreaming) and FER (Feminism and Religion) online schools in cooperation with the Ecumenical Women's Initiative from Omiš. They managed to implement trainings, educations and campaigns in cooperation with permanent partners in schools and universities with the aim of strengthening intercultural and interreligious competencies of teachers, thinking skills and teaching techniques in BH, Montenegro, Croatia and Serbia.

We have certified another group of trainers for SAPERE BH who can transfer knowledge according to the P4C method and start cooperation with the Ministry of Education of Sarajevo Canton on accreditation of SAPERE BiH program as one of the important programs that teachers will be able to apply and introduce critical thinking methods and techniques. their educational process.

Socrates cafes continued at five universities with current topics that young people discussed today by applying Socrates' dialogue methods, which include the art of asking questions to get to the truth.

During the pandemic, we continued to provide psychosocial support to teachers, students and young people to more easily overcome the period of isolation and learn how to deal with stress.

Through the UNIGEM program, they established a network of cooperation with 17 universities in BH, Serbia, Croatia and Montenegro, and at the end of the year, the University of Belgrade joined us. In a very short period of time, gender equality bodies were established at 18 universities, the Gender Action Plans (GAP) were adopted and a number of activities were implemented during the 16 Days of Activism campaign at these universities. In the 16

Days of Activism campaign, they participate every year in secondary and primary schools that are permanent partners of the TPO Foundation.

We are especially proud of the online FER school we launched in the fall as a pilot. It quickly became apparent that there was a great need to talk about women's rights and gender equality from a secular and religious perspective.

In cooperation with the embassies of Austria, France and the Goethe Institute, which coordinate the EUNIC program, we piloted a project on minorities called "My story is important" and our partners were organizations from Serbia, Montenegro and Macedonia.

We were honored to co-organize the promotion of the book published by Routledge Press "Healing and Peacebuilding After War" in cooperation with the University of Denver, which is the result of the International Conference on "Trauma, Memory and Healing" organized by TPO Foundation with world universities. . It is always interesting to talk about the film, and this year we had the opportunity to do so with groups of students, pupils and activists from local communities. In collaboration with the Embassy of the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland on the occasion of International Women's Day, we realized 3 online discussions about the film Jennifer Siebel News called Miss Representation.

I would like to thank the TPO Foundation team for their cooperation.

Why should we never suppress emotions and why should we talk about them? These were some of the questions we tried to answer during the first two sessions of the planned twenty sessions dedicated to the teachers of the program "Psychosocial Support in Facing the Challenges Caused by the Pandemic". Through simple exercises on thinking about their own capacities, the participants of the sessions had the opportunity to strengthen their emotions and observe the challenges of the pandemic in a different way. Participants in this program are teachers of primary and secondary schools HNK, KS, TZ, ZDK and SBK. The first thematic unit for the two groups of teachers was realized on Monday. Almost 100 primary and secondary school teachers from five cantons had the opportunity to study and talk with psychologist and psychotherapist Nermina Vehabović-Rudež and psychiatrist dr. #### 4.4 SOCRATES CAFES ZENICA

In the month of December, 2021, four Socrates cafes were held at the Faculty of Philosophy, University of Zenica. The coordinator for the city of Zenica is Mirza Džananović, PhD in History, and the cafes were moderated by: Dr. Hazim Begagić, Assistant Professor at the Department of Cultural Studies, University of Zenica, v. Prof. dr Esad Delibašić, prof. Dr. Damir Kukić, culturologist and peer educator Elmin Fehrić.

After interesting, exciting and constructive discussions, the students came to the conclusion that the fight for gender equality is an extremely important and long-lasting social process in which everyone should be involved, not just feminist activists or only women. Although significant strides have been made in recent history towards women's gender equality, numerous misogynistic and macho practices are still present in both the private and public spheres. Such a picture is primarily the result of the still ingrained patriarchal tradition and conservative environment.

6. THE FIRST ONLINE FAIR SCHOOL: FEMINISM AND RELIGION WAS ORGANIZED

The Feminism and Religion (FER) school is intended for women and men who want to academically question their beliefs, attitudes, knowledge and practices on human rights and freedoms and who want to explore how gender stereotypes shape the lives of women and men in family and society. The goal of the FER school is to deconstruct the foundations of gender stereotypes and construct egalitarian gender models that find their foothold in scientific and religious arguments. Classical and contemporary philosophical, theological, historical, sociological and other sources were analyzed using the method of feminist anthropology, historical criticism, hermeneutics of doubt and gender-sensitive linguistics. As part of the pilot phase of the FER school, we opened space for the implementation of four courses: History of Feminism in the East and the West; Philosophy and gender; Gender, religion and peacebuilding; Religion and gender-based violence.
